

The remarkable recovery of the Bald Eagle can be traced to the EDF-won ban on DDT and protection under the Endangered Species Act.

Dear Dr. Henney -
My Family and I urge the FDA to ban human antibiotics in animal feed. It could be catastrophic to life as our generation has grown to know it if the bacteria that can now be treated with antibiotics were to develop resistance to those antibiotics because of unnecessary overexposure.

Sincerely, Deborah Perlmutter

P.S. My grandfather died in the influenza epidemic in 1917 because there were no antibiotics. Let's not wipe out their usefulness in less than a century.
